Street Funds and Other Funds
Are Decreased Under Limitation Law

The city commission has voted down the city budget to conform with the limitation provided by the act of the last legislature.

The city, Mayor Lehart said today would have to keep its expenses to a minimum during the coming year and he expressed approval of a close paring of expenses if other political subdivisions do the same thing so as to cut down the tremendous burden on taxpayers. Under the limitation law all subdivisions are permitted to spend in 1921 one-third of the amount raised by taxation in the three previous years. The state is excepted from the law.

The budget cuts made by the city are chiefly in the general fund. The contingent fund also was cut. There are some items in the budget which are fixed charges interest on bonds etc., and these cannot be changed.

Approximately one-half of the White Way lights will not burn. Further saving in lighting it was said will be made in the summer time. The cost of lighting the city was $10,000 of which a considerable portion was for White Way lights. The cut is to $7,525.61.

The changes in the budget follow: Salaries remain $7,350.00, paving and stationery cut from $500 to $721.47, street lighting $10,000 to $7,525.61, health department $7,200 to $6,771.73, fire department $8,700 to $8,774.18, police department $8,070 to $7,000, water and sewer, $10,000 to $9,016.27, auditorium expenses $1,500 to $1,202.44, swimming pool expenses, $1,000 to $500, needy poor, remains $4,500, road and street levy, $15,220.00 to $12,410.24, contingent fund $5,000 to $2,478.73, library fund, $5,000 to $4,500. "SHOWDOWN" IN COAL FIELDSInternational Miners' Organization Gives Final Edict

Pittsburgh Kan. Nov. 16.—What union officials and one other termed a showdown in the Kansas coal field loomed today with the going into effect of an order by representatives of the International Mine Workers Union that all strikers in the field go back to the pits today. Failure to obey the edict will bring revocation of local charters and automatic suspension of the recalcitrant members according to the terms of the order.

About 12,000 miners went on voluntary strike several weeks ago when Alexander Howatt, president and Aust. Dorcy vice-president of the Kansas union were sent to jail for six months for violation of the Industrial Court law.

It was impossible early today to determine how generally the back to work notice was being obeyed.

St. Mary's Church

VITAL TOPICS DISCUSSED

A week set apart by the church for men and women to meditate is the purpose of a mission conducted by Father Stanton who is conducting the mission at St. Mary's church.

The missions which have been attracting wide attention among people of all denominations, began on Sunday November 6 and the week following was especially for women. This week Father Stanton is talking to the men.

The church with about 100 extra seats was filled to capacity during the women's week and with about 50 extra seats has been filled each night with a men's congregation. Morning masses are held at six and eight o'clock and have also drawn large crowds.

The subjects at the evening services are general and of interest to all. Such subjects as "Marriage" and "The Home" have been discussed. The sermon this evening will be on "Consecration" and on Thursday night Father Stanton will explain the Catholic doctrine of the Real Presence of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament.

Services have also been held for the children on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock. About 400 children have been attending the services.

Father Stanton was especially pleased with the earnestness and piety shown by the men and women of the parish. The mission is held regularly every year in the larger parishes and once in three years in the smaller places. Father Stanton says that a good deal of the evil is caused by people forgetting and the purpose of the mission is to help them remember their duties. He also says that the cause of discord among men and among women is the lack of understanding and that when people will come together so they may learn, understanding will increase and at the same time discord will decrease.

Missions for the men will be held every night this week. The final sermon will be given on Sunday November 20.

PROSPECTS OF
BIG LAND DEAL
APPEAR FADEDProposal Made To Purchase
30,000 Acres of Land
Near Baldwin

Prospects of one of the largest land deals in many years in Burleigh county appeared somewhat faded today.

A stranger who visited in and near Baldwin bought half dozen or so farms. He was to ship in 8,000 fine cattle and he needed 30,000 acres of grazing land. The only slip in the deal came when the time arrived for paying for the land purchased by verbal agreement. The money had not been produced today and the outcome is unknown.

The stranger visited in Baldwin and agreed to purchase many farms. He came to Bismarck yesterday with a number of farmers and sought to send a draft for $125,000 on a bank in Cordele, Georgia through the First National Bank. A reply was received by wire that he was not known in Cordele. The man applied to State Attorney McCurdy, Deputy Sheriff Phelps and the farmers that he had sold land through an agent in Georgia and had directed the money be put in a bank at Folkstone, Georgia. A reply from Folkstone said he and the real estate agent whose name he gave were not known and no big land deal had been recorded.

The discussion continued during the day and late last evening the stranger is understood to have returned to the farmer with whom he had been staying at Baldwin.

25 HURT IN RIOTING

Urbana, Ia. Nov. 16.—Companies A, B, C and D from Des Moines under command of Col. Guy E. Brewer arrived here this morning. The troops immediately relieved the 80 deputy sheriffs sworn into service late yesterday by Sheriff George Gilmer who had been guarding the John Morrow packing plant during the night.

Quiet prevailed in the vicinity of the packing house this morning though a large crowd was on hand before the troops arrived. Yesterday strike pickets and sympathizers stationed to prevent employees from entering the plant to work precipitated rioting in which 25 persons were injured.

The troops are patrolling all streets leading to the packing plant while machine guns have been set up at advantageous points and the crowd in the vicinity is kept scattered and on the move.

Washington Nov. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The first meeting of the technical committee to which the armament program of the American delegation was referred yesterday adjourned at noon today not to resume until tomorrow. Various phases of the American plan were taken under consideration by the individual experts for each power preparatory to further committee discussion later.

Washington Nov. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—With the American arms reduction proposal referred to a committee of the naval advisors of the five great powers as the accepted fundamental policy on naval armaments the Washington conference turned its attention today to other big subjects of the meeting, the Far Eastern question.

Apparently none of the nations was ready to present a comprehensive plan of settlement of questions involved at the outset and the delegation of all the nine interested powers seemed to have adopted a waiting attitude as they prepared to meet in executive session this morning as a committee of the whole to take up this phase of the conference work.

Meanwhile the work of preparing a report on the American proposal for reduction of naval armaments involving consideration of the modifications to be suggested by Great Britain and Japan under the reservations with which the plan was accepted by them in principle and spirit along with France and Italy will go forward.

URGES FARMERS TO ENGAGE IN ALL POLITICS

Should Be Active In Both State and Nation, Asserts Farmers Union Head

ATTACKS RESERVE HEAD

Topeka Kan. Nov. 15.—In rendering a report on his stewardship after 15 years as president of the National Farmers' Union before its national convention here today, Charles S. Barrett, of Union City, Ga., emphasized the importance of farmer organizations engaging in politics both state and national and keeping a vigilant watch on governmental operations at Washington. He had words of warmest praise for the spirit of loyalty and the measure of efficiency that farmers' union institutions have achieved during the past year.

He was bitter in his attacks on Governor W. D. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board and David F. Houston, former secretary of the treasury, on whom he heaped the blame for great decrease in values of farm products. He called them "the deflation twins."

"I believe the time is surely coming," he said, "when the farmers of this nation will conduct practically all their business through agencies of their own creation directed and governed by themselves. If this is to be accomplished, however, many obstacles must be removed. The obstacles of prejudice, ignorance, sectionalism and many other impediments to real progress must succumb."

To the activities of the National Farmers' Union and the national board of farm organizations in Washington Mr. Barrett attributed a large measure of the success of enactment of laws by Congress favorable to agriculture including the packer control act and the tendency to reduce railroad rates.

NESTOS WOULD APPOINT GRAIN PROBING BODY

Appointment of Non-Political Commission His Idea Writes on Subject

Minot, N. D., Nov. 15.—The appointment of a non-political commission, made up of men who are well informed on grain and milling business to make a survey of the mill and elevator situation in North Dakota and serve as an advisory board to assist the new state administration in matters relative to grain, elevator and milling business is a plan of Governor-elect R. A. Nestos, according to letters sent by him to the presidents of the North Dakota Society of Equity, the Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers Union and the North Dakota Grange asking that they name four men from whom he can select an advisory board of five or seven members.

Mr. Nestos' letter to Anthony Walton, president of the North Dakota Society of Equity, follows:

"The independent program suggests the appointment of a non-political commission to make a survey of the mill and elevator situation in this state and to report its findings with recommendations to the governor."

"It is my personal desire to have such a commission both for the purpose of securing this survey and report and also in the hope of having this body of men, expert in the grain elevator and milling business, as counselors during the balance of my administration."

"That there may be no delay in the appointment of the commission and to make it possible that at least the first part of the survey and report is made by the first of the year I desire your organization and other farmers organizations to submit to me a list of names of men who are thoroughly familiar with the grain raising problems and with the mill and elevator business so that from the list so submitted I may name the majority, or possibly the whole of such commission."

Matters To Be Covered

"Among the matters to be covered by the survey are first of all, the cost of the Grand Forks mill today with an accurate estimate of its present value, what additional funds will be required to complete the mill and to install the needed machinery and make it ready for service, and also the most economical method of completion whether by contract, day labor or on the cost plus plan."

"Then for the second report, the best method of management so that we may promote the welfare of the farmers and taxpayers of the state, and lastly what action should be taken with reference to the Drake mill. Other matters may also be added if they should appear to be of value in the proper solution of these problems."

"I wish that the board of directors of your organization would submit the names of four men, honest and capable, and who have the confidence of the farmers of the state, and who understand the problems involved. It is desirable that at least one of these be a good business man and one a practical and competent miller. In submitting the list of names, I would ask that with each name there be submitted information as to his training, experience, and why you deem him of value in making such survey and report.

Asks Recommendations

"I should appreciate if you could submit these recommendations to me at the earliest possible moment so that upon inauguration, I may name this commission without delay and thereby insure that the first report be made at an early date. I do not know whether there is any chance of paying the expenses of a per diem for the services of these men but I trust that even if such cannot be done that we find a body of men who are willing to render at least some of this service for the good of the state."

A similar letter has been sent to the other farm organizations and Mr. Nestos expects to have the names desired before the end of this week.

"I have had a conference with bankers of the state to discuss the problem of the state's credit and the opening up of farm loans is the most important problem we face," Mr. Nestos stated today. "The financial question is urgent and must be met first. The conference with the bankers will lead to a solution. I have also been in touch with men interested in good roads and have asked their counsel in such matters. The purpose of the advisory commission I have referred to in my letter to the various farm organizations is to have men advising me who are experts in the matters in which their assistance is desired."

ARMISTICE DAY IS OBSERVED

Washburn, N. D., Nov. 15.—The third Armistice day was fittingly observed by the citizens of this city and surrounding community. A very appropriate program had been arranged by the Victor B. Wallin Post of the American Legion which was carried out in all details.

At 11 o'clock a lone bugler sounded "taps," the echoes falling crisply on the cold morning air. It brought to mind the dying echoes of that other day, only three years past, as it announced that the Great War had ended.

As the bugle's notes faded away, the city band marched from their hall and took their stand around the flag-pole on Main street. In spite of the cold the boys presented some very fine music.

Concluding the street concert the band marched to the opera house, where the musical prelude to the morning services was given. The commandant of the local post, acting as chairman, introduced Mr. J. C. N. Fennelly, who delivered a timely talk on Armistice Day Observance. An evening program also was held.

The Mission for men that is in progress this week at St. Mary's church is being attended by unusually large crowds.

Last evening Father Stanton spoke to a congregation of over 700 men on the subject of Christian Marriage. This was probably the largest religious gathering of men ever assembled in western North Dakota. Father Stanton is an earnest and able speaker and was listened to with close attention.

The mission continues every evening this week, at eight o'clock. Non Catholics are welcome to attend these services.

Mustn't Let Your Light Hair Get Dark

BY MME. MOREAU

Paris, Nov. 15.—Since you're a town dweller, very likely the frequent washings you have to subject your hair to are dulling its lovely light tints and soon, instead of the dazzling blond you are, you'll be a sort of half between.

And, of course, you are the individual who must be particularly careful about the kind of shampoo you use. It can't be one with too drying an effect, for then you'll have to resort to the vaseline pot to restore the oil you've washed out.

A really pleasant shampoo can be made of an infusion of bruised quilla bark. This is a liquid of a pale reddish color, soft and frothy, which can be used instead of the regular soap solution.

And then there is a trick which you may steal from the peasant women of Switzerland. They keep their heavy braids that wonderful light tone by using an infusion of camomile flowers. You can buy these at any druglet's. Put a small handful in the bottom of the bowl in which you put the last rinsing water for your hair and then pour the water over them. Rub the water well into the hair, then dry and brush it.

The camomile has really delightful fragrance sweet and clean.

If it happens that you can't get camomile, put two tablespoons of vinegar in the last rinsing water. This too, has a softening and lightening effect.

TRIBUNE WANTS—FOR RESULTS

TEACHERS AND PARENTS NOW COOPERATING

Parents Never Used To Take Much Interest in School Work —Things Different Now

P. T. A. TO HOLD 2 MEETINGS

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 16.—Time was when the parent and the teacher never met except when Johnny and Mary became so unbearable at school that the teacher in desperation had to appear and ask that parental discipline be added to the weakened discipline of the school room. Times are when every well ordered school district has its parent teacher association and the instructor and the mother and sometimes the father of Johnny and Mary meet to pool abilities, experience and methods in the hope of developing a better product of both the home and the school.

The movement has become such an educational force that the North Dakota State Teachers Association has a section devoted to the Parent-Teacher Association organization and the parents as well as the teachers are asked to attend the state meetings. This section also elects delegates to the National Association of the "P. T. A." This year, in addition to hearing the report of the North Dakota delegate to the National Convention, Mrs. H. H. Ellsworth of Kildeer, the state section, meeting at Fargo expects to hear Mrs. Milton P. Higgins of Worcester, Mass., National president of the Parent-Teachers Association, The "P. T. A." section of the North Dakota Teachers Association will hold two meetings—Tuesday morning, November 22 at 9 a. m. at which Mrs. Higgins is on the program to speak and a second Wednesday morning at the same hour.

WOMEN'S CLUBS WILL ASSIST IN LIBRARY WORK

Miss Downey Shows How Federation of Women's Clubs Can Assist State Work

NINE POINTS ARE GIVEN

When Miss Mary E. Downey, recently made director of the North Dakota Library Commission was asked by the members of the Federation of Women's Clubs in the state to suggest things the members of the different clubs might do to assist the state in organizing its library work, she was quick to answer with nine instead of fourteen points. Almost all of her nine points, Miss Downey believes to be essential in library progress in the state. Her suggestions to the club women follow:

- 1—Work to get a county library bill through the next session of the legislature.
- 2—Get tax support for municipal libraries without it.
- 3—Establish libraries in towns not having them.
- 4—Build up book and magazine collections in libraries now existing by campaigns through the public schools.
- 5—See that the public schools throughout the state have class-room libraries suited to the grades.
- 6—See that adequate library facilities are supplied the secondary schools.
- 7—Work for a course on the care and library use of books throughout the public school system.
- 8—Make a survey of local public and school libraries to see if they are meeting standard requirements of efficiency.
- 9—Assist in developing libraries in state, county and town institutions.

WITH JOBS GONE WHERE WILL THE POLITICIANS GO?

Totten Says Leaguers Will Not Go To Wisconsin—Morgan Says They Will

Few, if any, of the men cut loose from the North Dakota payroll as a result of the impending change in state administration will seek positions in the Nonpartisan League forces of other states. With three or four exceptions, the men working in the state house here were in North Dakota for some time before they took office. In common with a large percentage of the white population of the state, however, they claim the commonwealth as their birthplace. The nonresidents on the payroll are from states farther west and expect to return to non-political work at the point of their previous residence.

GAS COMPANY HEARING ON

Representatives Appear Before Railroad Commission

The state railroad commission today held a hearing on its order to the Bismarck Gas company to show cause why the 25 per cent surcharge granted the company in 1920 and extended from time to time should not be discontinued.

The gas company, represented by Frank Ployhar of Valley City, owner, and E. B. Cox, attorney, presented figures intended to show that present rates are justified on the basis of the price of gas, coal and other operating costs. The surcharge order was granted.

OUR RED-HEADED KID

By

FREDERICK WALWORTH

Copyright, 1931, by Frederick Walworth. By arrangement with McClure's Magazine and The Literary Digest Newspaper Syndicate

Monday is a ban's busy day. So when the Fourth of July, or Washington's Birthday, or some other of our increasingly numerous holidays comes on Monday, and the fifth day of July, or the twenty-third day of February, or whatever day Tuesday may chance to be, is burdened with the labor of three days and a half, the bank clerk takes off his coat and his cuffs and his morality, and prepares for a tall exhibition of elementary arithmetic. It is not well to ask a favor of the cashier on such a Tuesday.

Bob turned up at the bank on Tuesday, July the fifth, and his reception would have disheartened a person lacking as tough an integument. As it was, Bob didn't seem to realize he had been turned down. Mr. Martin, the cashier, had his coat off and both hands working like an electric fan in a mass of filthy bills which Uncle Sam should have redeemed and turned into papier-mache hats and vases long ago. The day was unreasonably warm, and the cashier's collar slapped limp and gluey upon his apoplectic neck.

At intervals he turned his head away, and said something not meant for the teller's ears while he sprinkled the reeking mass with rosewater from a bottle on the counter. Most of the bills had been dragged from deep pockets by members of the thirty-third degree of the great unwashed fraternity, and, as the cashier had remarked, they carried one hundred cents to the dollar. But that was on a previous occasion. There was no time for any such levity on Tuesday, July 5th.

"Please sir, I'm lookin' for a job." We all heard it, but its origin was not immediately apparent. The cashier continued counting dirty bills. Mr. Harvey, the teller, glanced at the cashier and returned to his books. Tom, who was "on the ledger," consulted with a check in his fingers as his pen on the line, took one side look in the direction of the sound, evidently saw nothing, and proceeded to enter the check. The rest of us were engaged with mercilessly multitudinous checks and seemingly endless columns, and did not even pause. The cashier had informed us that if we wanted anything to eat that night before we lived in, we had better "hit it up pretty lively."

"Hister, I say I'm lookin' for a job." This time we all stopped, supper or no supper. The cashier looked up over his shoulder and beheld a small boy, not over-washed, villainously red-headed, and, judging from the age of his face, stunted in his growth. His eyes did not reach the level of the counter. It was after four, and the doors had been locked for an hour. He must have arrived via the window.

"I'd like to run your errands," he elucidated pleasantly. "We have no place for you," said the cashier shortly, and in a tone which made further conversation on the subject ludicrous. The boy retreated to the window and sat down on the sill. At five he was still there. He didn't even whistle. He simply stayed with us, his eyes roving around the bank and taking stock, as it were. At six he had not departed.

We were working furiously. Tom had a ten cent difference and was growing gray hunting for it. I was some hundred and fifty odd dollars out, and was rapidly losing my reason. Jim hadn't his checks even entered yet, and was apparently going to sleep standing. Art had his balance, and from the top of a stool was yawning, and between yawns smiling sweetly at my vocabulary and egging me on. By seven we were all waiting for Jim. He had his footings he said, and thought he had a difference, but wasn't sure how much. At this brilliant announcement Tom took Jim's books and straightened things out. By that time it was seven-thirty, and I for one was limp with hunger.

Fortunately the cash was two dollars over, and we closed up for the night. As the cashier philosophically observed, if the bank was ahead two dollars there'd be no trouble finding out who was short. As we turned out the lights and shut the shutters we came upon the boy still sitting in the window. Tom asked him who he was, and no said his name was Bob. He gave no sign of needing sympathy, expressed in either words or cash. Rather he gave one the impression of being excellently well able to cure for himself. He left the bank with us, and we sep him. Bob took kindly to the arrangement, and Tony was glad enough to have his company at night and help in cleaning up after bank hours.

His weekly wages were fixed at two dollars by Mr. Martin, and when Bob was handed the money on Saturday he nearly burst with pride over his affluence. Where he got his meals at this time we did not know; probably at some cheap restaurant. Subsequently he was more or less adopted by Tony and his wife.

To say that he made himself indispensable would be stating plain unvarnished truth. Jim and I early agreed that if Bob was "fired" we'd have to resign, or, what was equivalent, interview the directors with a view to a raise. Up to his advent the running of the bank's errands had devolved upon us, and we were loath to return to any such arrangement. Also, as Bob lived at the bank he always had the windows open and the place ready for business when we arrived.

This gave us an additional five minutes in bed each morning, and during the winter this is not a thing to be despised. The bliss of waking up in a room where you can see your breath, and are morally certain your water pitcher is frozen over, even when it isn't, of looking at your watch and finding that you have seven whole minutes more! Champagne is not like it.

However, Bob had been with us nearly a year, and had, as I say, made himself indispensable to Jim and me before he succeeded in attaching himself to the bank as one of the permanent fixtures. After the events I am about to relate the directors would have put up with the loss of the cashier, or Harvey or even me, before they would have let Bob go. He's with us yet, and will be till either he or the bank goes up.

Our bank is the only institution of the kind in the vicinity. North one must go six miles, south 20 miles, and west 12 miles to find another place of deposit, and to the east is the Atlantic Ocean. This being so, the bank is unusually prosperous for a country institution, paying regular dividends of 12 and 13 per cent to its stockholders. It is run conservatively, and is as sound and safe as United States 4's—almost.

Our trouble began with the failure of the Tidewater Trust company of New York. This bank was our city correspondent, and with it we had on deposit some $40,000, drawing a low interest and available immediately in time of need. This amount was nearly four-fifths of our ready cash to meet the demands of depositors. The bulk of our deposits was, of course, invested in short-time paper, not available until maturity—and not always then—and some of the assets was in the form of real estate, inconvertible except at a heavy loss. There was something like $10,000 cash actually in the bank to meet $200,000 worth of deposits, and the day when the New York papers announced the failure of the Tidewater saw the beginning of the only run our bank has ever experienced. That it stood the strain was due entirely to Bob.

Fortunately the knowledge that we were badly caught in the Tidewater failure did not become generally known until afternoon, and the $10,000 held out till we could close the bank doors at three. I was dismally doing my work that night wondering where I could get another place if the bank went under, when I became aware of Bob at my elbow. He looked more doleful than I felt.

"Oh! cheer up," I said. "It may not be true. You look as though you'd just been measured by the undertaker."

He looked at me solemnly, as though not certain of my sanity. "We'll pull through yet," I said.

"Huh," he grunted; "I ain't worryin' none about the bank. Mr. Martin'll tend to the bank all right."

The cashier was his god, and before him only he bowed down. "I seen me dad this afternoon," he added dismally.

"Well, that's good," I said; "bring him around and introduce him. If he's anything like you, though, tell him not to make a long call." I added, "It is never well to let a boy get the idea he is indispensable, even when he is."

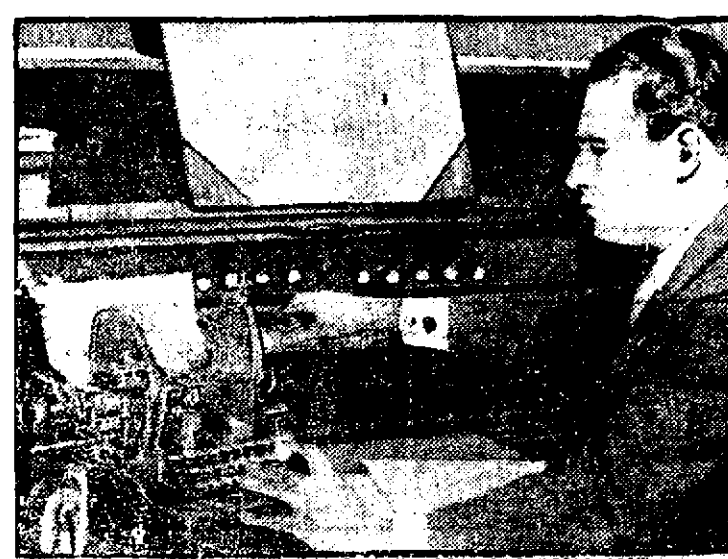

"He did n't see me, though," Bob continued, ignoring my levity. "Wonder how he followed me clean here. Thought I'd shook him for keeps. I bet he ain't bunnin' round here for no good, neither."

"You untill 'little barbarian,'" I said. "You don't seem incensed with smiles at the advent of your long-lost parent."

"Think you're funny, don't you, huh?" said Bob, and left me, and I promptly forgot his dad.

There was a convocation of directors in the bank parlors that afternoon, which immediately converted itself into a committee of the whole.

on ways and means. Mr. Martin had sent out telegrams to half-a-dozen of the nearest banks asking assistance, and offering to deposit bonds as security. Ten thousand dollars was obtained in this way from the Beach Grove Banking company, and came in on the last train south that evening. The only other bank able to help was the Longford First National, which offered $20,000 if we could come and get it. The last train to the west was gone, and there was no train back that night.

Longford is 12 miles west of our town over bad roads. If we could get this $20,000, the cashier believed it would tide us over and restore confidence in our ability to pay dollar for dollar. If we did not get it the bank must close its doors by 12 next day almost to a certainty. Some one must drive across to Longford with the bonds and return with the money before the bank opened next morning.

Our part of the country is as safe as another; but under the circumstances, when the composite eye of the community was centered upon the bank, it would be impossible for one of the bank force to leave town without the object of his mission being immediately surmised. And in our town it is a common saying that a dollar bill looks to some folks as big as a ten acre lot. So it was not a hilarious party which drove west late that evening. There was too much at stake.

We had a two-seated buckboard and a good team. The cashier and I sat behind, with the bonds in a valise between us. When we were ready to start, Bob climbed up beside the driver on the front seat.

"Here, Bob," said Mr. Martin sharply. "We can't take you."

"I got to go," said Bob simply, and he went. Mr. Martin may have realized that since he had decided to go it would be impossible to leave him behind. He would have materialized at Longford from some impossible part of the vehicle as sure as we had tried it.

The cashier had two revolvers and I had one. The other one of the four always kept in the bank could not be found when we were ready to start. However, we didn't use those.

NOTICE

Diphtheria has been prevalent in Bismarck for the past two months. It began on the south side and most of the cases during the first six weeks were in that part of the city. During the month of November there has been an average of one new case daily. There is no cause for undue alarm but the health department urges all parents to seek medical attention at the first sign of illness among children. Diphtheria is not dangerous if treated early. The health department asks the co-operation of the public in observing quarantine. Schools will remain open.

PAINT AND OIL STAINS.

Fresh paint stains yields quite easily to either turpentine or benzine. Turpentine is, of course, the less pleasant to work with on account of the odor, and unfortunately, the odor clings for some time after the garment has been cleaned with it.

Ether is effective for old paint stains. However, if the stains are too obstinate, it may be necessary to first soften them with vaseline, castor oil or even butter.

After letting them stand with the softener on for about a half hour, scrape off all of the paint possible. Then clean with the regular solvent like turpentine or benzine. Occasionally red oil paint is especially obstinate. In that case mix, in equal proportions, carbon tetrachloride, acetic ether and rectified fusel oil.

Olive Oil—When the stain is made by the clear oil it can be removed with benzine or carbon tetrachloride. If the oil is mixed with vinegar the same cleaning mediums may be used, but a ring will be left. This is practically unavoidable.

Paraffin—Carbon tetrachloride will remove marks made on fabrics by paraffin.

THE WOMAN CITIZEN.

How is it possible for the woman of today to meet the requirements of a home-maker, mother, and voter, with all her social and political activities, if she is to go on suffering the pain that comes from ailments peculiar to her sex?

Check the malady at once by a conscientious treatment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of backache, and dragging-down sensations, so common to women who suffer from female diseases.

Oh Boy! Meet me at the big Chicken Pie Supper, Thursday, 5:30 to 8 p. m., at the Episcopal Parish House, at rear of Church. Price 75c.

Modern Brotherhood of America will hold their regular meeting Thursday night at K. P. Hall at 8:15 sharp. All members and friends invited to attend dancing party after the meeting.

Grant Marsh, Sec.

Dance at Baker's Hall every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. 10c a dance. Best music in the state.

COOPERATION IN BUSINESS

Those who heard J. H. Hall's lecture under the auspices of the Town Criers caught a new vision of the power of enthusiastic and constructive co-operation.

He agreed with the prediction that in time the word advertising would not be employed as frequently but that advertising would be referred to as mass salesmanship.

The Town Criers are to be congratulated upon bringing Mr. Hall to Bismarck. His message is a vital one and if heeded can do much toward building up community effort.

BURIED MYSTERIES

How old is man? How far back does human history date? Where was the first civilization? Expect important revelations soon. Scientific expeditions galore are digging into the earth, seeking to unlock the secrets of the past.

What they seek is truth about your most ancient ancestors.

Excavations made this year indicate that the age of man in history has heretofore been underestimated.

University of Pennsylvania's archaeological expedition cables from Palestine that it has cut a trench down through the eight cities buried in layers under the ancient city called Beth-Shan in the Bible.

The buried city at the bottom of the heap dates back at least 4500 years. Relics are dug up, showing that its people worked in iron, bronze, brass, pottery and marble.

How many thousands or hundreds of thousands of years did it take, for primitive man to work up to that stage of civilization?

Prof. G. G. McCurdy, digging in France, sends to the Yale Museum several human skeletons which he estimates are "at least 50,000 years old."

Some scientists think man emerged from animal form and began to walk on his hind legs and use his fore legs (arms) for fashioning tools, about 525,000 years ago.

Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, English scientist, has devoted his life to studying ancient history. He has one of the oldest Bibles in existence. Says its marginal notes convince him that the oldest authentic date in human history is 13,640 B. C. (15,561 years ago) when Aryan tribes moved into northern India.

Lord Clifford says the great Noah's Ark flood occurred 7340 years ago. He describes it as a Persian flood, exceptionally severe, but quite local, caused by the overflow of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

Cliff is wrong. That the Deluge was worldwide is proved by the fact that Aztecs, Chinese, American Indians and all other races have myths about a great flood that occurred at that time. Chinese even go as far as to claim that their emperor, Yu, had to cut a gorge through the Wu mountains to let the water run out to the sea after the flood waters receded.

Remote antiquity seems to be a closed book. To a certain extent it is, due largely to destruction of the most ancient writings by invading armies.

But scientists can dig up a brick or bronze tool here and a petrified bone there, and, with detective skill, piece the clues together and reconstruct the past.

The Frenchman, Chevreau, spent years investigating all information about Adam and Eve. He decided that they were created on Friday, shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

LAWYERS

Senator Underwood tells a convention of tool manufacturers that a fourth of the time of employers and of lawyers is devoted to making up tax returns. That often is true—especially in the case of expert accountants who get fat fees for finding "sink-holes," etc.

The more complicated a system of taxation, the easier it is to dodge. Simplicity has no caverns for hiding.

HONESTY

Not such a bad world, after all, says Mrs. E. E. Rawsthorne. She lived in Green Village, N. J. Went to New York to live. Lost her purse, with her total fortune of $1400, while looking for an apartment. It was a hard blow. She is a widow, with four children to support.

OWNERS

Pennsylvania railroad announces that it has about 140,000 stockholders, 65,170 being women. Average holding is 71 shares for each stockholder.

The thing called capital is a system of millions of units, banded together into a big organization, like a coral reef. Ownership of wealth in America still is, in the majority, in the hands of the people.

Every person, with money in the bank, is part of the capitalistic system.

Most farmers, and even crafty old hunters, believe that a wise old wolf will not eat a poisoned bait. This notion is knocked in the head by the government's Biological Survey. It kills four wolves, with poisoned baits, on a ranch near Nelson, Arizona.

This leaves just one animal too cunning to be caught by poisoned bait—the caircajou, or "Injun Devil." It follows a trapper and springs his traps by touching them with a stick held between its teeth. Is that intelligence? Decidedly.

MOON

The moon is not running on schedule, according to astronomers' observations. It was 12 miles ahead of time-table, at the recent eclipse. This does not check up exactly with what the moon should be doing under Newton's law of gravitation.

Einstein probably can explain it. One thing, however, stumps Einstein and all other master brains: What is the great source of power that keeps sun, moon, planets and stars rolling onward through space forever? Where does the power come from?

All these problems lead back to the certainty of a Supreme Intelligence.

KNOWLEDGE

Total circulation of all American newspapers has doubled in the last seven years, says Stanley Claque, managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

That is a long stride forward. It means that the average person is twice as well informed about what is going on, all over the earth, as he was in 1914. This is one real benefit of the war, which aroused great curiosity and got people in the habit of seeking facts—news.

And news printed in 1921 is twice as important as in 1914. Is it as interesting? What do you like to read? Tell us.

BUDDHA

In Japan, followers of Buddha have formed Sunday schools, social service clubs and organizations corresponding to the Y. M. C. A. and Epworth League, says Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, of Chicago, head of a missionary society.

In time, the Buddhists also will adopt the teachings of Christ. Maybe, too, time will eliminate the idea that often causes Christians much pondering: "Did I live on earth before? Am I the reincarnation of Cleopatra or Napoleon?" Reincarnation is a Buddhist idea. Those who believe in it always think they were famous people in former lives, never unknowns. That is vanity.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

CHILDREN UNDER BOLSHIEVISM

For a considerable time the last defensive stand of the pro-Bolsheviks has been the assertion that "Well, anyhow, the soviet government takes good care of its children." In February came Lunacharsky's statement, which revealed the fact that the children in the government homes were "crowded into unsuitable buildings, sleeping four on one bed, shivering in the cold, without a change of underwear, eaten by vermin, starved and deprived of the opportunity to learn."

Other official statements at the time or later pointed out the increasing lack of care of the children, and the growth of theft and prostitution. Venereal diseases among children in the cities were shown to have reached amazing proportions.

Now comes Mary Foster Vorse, in a cable dispatch to the Universal Service, printed in the Hearst paper of Oct. 3, which says that "the relief officials report that conditions are worse among Petrograd children than among any seen in any of the other European countries." It is a rather euphemistic way of stating what is known to be the terrible fact regarding the children of Petrograd, but it will do. The pro-Bolshevik journals will of course seek to minimize the importance of all this by pointing out that the lying capitalist press has now and then printed silly rumors from Reval or Helsingfors of Trotsky's fight or Lenin's assassination. This is good buncombe for the boobyery, but among more sensible folk it is futile. The real truth about Russia is becoming known, in spite of the pro-Bolsheviks.

THE PROBLEMS IN THE PACIFIC

This map shows the Pacific problems the Washington conference has set out to solve. Dotted lines enclose the islands over which Japan was given a mandate at the Versailles peace meet. This gives Japan control of Yap, important cable station, and permits Japan to isolate the Philippines, American possession. Guam, another American possession, is shown surrounded by a network of Japanese islands. French Pacific interests are limited to Indo-China. Australia is menaced by Jap expansion. Holland has holdings in Borneo, Java and Sumatra. Portugal controls only the peninsula Macao one and one-half miles long and one mile wide.

ORDEALS

(Berion Braley's Daily Poem.)

Hail to you, Foch, who in dark days and terrible
Stood unperturbed, undismayed and undaunted;
Hail! for you doggedly bore the unbearable,
Never by doubt was the soul of you haunted!

Yet though you shrank not when shell-fire was battering,
Though you won through to a victory shining,
Hark—hear the plates and the cutlery clattering,
Well may you tremble at dining—and dining!

You who were calm when the cannon were thundering,
You who were steadfast when others were quaking,
You who thought straight when the others were blundering,
You who held on when the armies were breaking;

Loudly we hail you who conquered all wavering,
Silenced the cravens and ended the whining—
But, can you bear all the fuss and palavering,
Bear all the burden of dining—and dining!

Adequate always to each opportunity,
Saving the world from its darkest disaster,
You shall hear plaudits in every community—
Ever your fame will wax vaster and vaster!

(Speeches and speeches, with viands combining)
Well may you blanch at the prospect confronting you—
Dining—and dining! and dining!!!

RED CROSS PROVES ITS WORTH TO

THIS WONDERFUL YANKEE WHO WEARS

MEDALS FOR DEEDS IN WORLD WAR

Sergeant Harry Allsopp has given his approval of the United States hospitalization service and as he has been under the care of the Red Cross his approval is worthy of consideration.

He wears a Croix de Guerre with two palms, the highest French decoration bestowed upon an American soldier.

He was piloting an American plane in conflict with an enemy plane September 26, 1918, when his gunner was shot dead. Allsopp then rammed his plane directly into that of the enemy and most of that which subsequently happened is not within his memory.

When he regained consciousness in a hospital both legs were broken, his spine was injured, his lungs were pierced by a broken rib and since that time he has developed tuberculosis. The approval of his daring venture, however, is represented by his coveted decoration.

Sergeant Allsopp spent Saturday morning at the American Legion Welfare bureau in St. Paul. He is in the regular army and proud of it, although supporting himself on crutches and experiencing considerable difficulty with his lungs.

Attached to the First pursuit group in overseas service, he was actively engaged at the front from November, 1917, until the crash came September 26, 1918. He was bedridden more than two years and gets about now with great difficulty.

"My own experience has proved that complaints about the United States hospitalization service are not justified. Everything possible is being done for the boys by Uncle Sam, and there is no room to find fault."

He commended the work of the American Red Cross in arranging for the care of disabled veterans to which they are entitled.

"If the American people only realized how many disabled former service men there are who need attention, and how many are receiving attention through the interest shown by the Red Cross, it wouldn't be necessary to continue the fifth annual roll call from Armistice to Thanksgiving day. Every former member and every patriotic and grateful American citizen would re-enlist his support on the very first day."

Run Down?

Kidney and bladder troubles are not limited to men. Housework, or work in office or factory, causes women to suffer from weak, overworked or diseased kidneys. The symptoms are: puffiness under the eyes, sallow skin, constant tired feeling, lack of ambition, nervous condition, backache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff joints.

Foley Kidney Pills

get right at the cause of suffering, and misery, regulate the kidneys and add and restore the diseased organs to sound and healthy condition

Mrs. Wm. Foster, 2000 Woodbine Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes: "I am just getting along fine. I am taking Foley Kidney Pills, very regular. You know I have seen me before I started I was yellow as gold, now my eyes and skin are all cleared up. My kidneys do not bother me at night any more. It will help me a great deal and I am suffering no more. I may use my name wherever your medicine is advertised."

DECLARES IT WAS SURPRISE OF HER LIFE

Says She Never Saw Anything To Equal The Way Tanlac Overcame Her Troubles

"I never was so surprised at anything in my life as I was at the way Tanlac relieved my troubles," said Mrs. Frank Krz. of 3026 45th avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn.

"For a number of years I endured dreadful suffering on account of a severe case of stomach trouble. I had to use the greatest care as to what I ate, for at times the least little thing would completely upset me. Often I would become so nauseated that I could scarcely retain a thing I had eaten and would suffer terribly. I tried many different medicines and treatments, but became very discouraged as time went by without bringing me any relief, and I began to think I would have to suffer for the rest of my life.

"However I wasn't ready to give up, and when I saw Tanlac recommended so highly I got a bottle and started taking it and it certainly proved a happy surprise. Since taking five bottles my stomach is in splendid condition and never troubles me a particle. My appetite is just fine and I'm no longer troubled with nausea. Tanlac has certainly been a wonderful thing for me, and I just think it's the grandest medicine ever made."

"Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere."

We had reached the bank at 10 o'clock, and drove directly to the bank. The cashier had been advised of our coming by telegram and was waiting for us. We handed over the bonds, received the cash in small bills, and started back in good spirits.

It was near 2 in the morning when we approached our own home. I had a hard day's work and confess to a long sleep. I had been asleep for some time when I heard a noise in the hall. I got up and looked out. I saw a man in a dark coat and hat standing in the hall. I called out to him. He said he was a stranger and that he had come to see me. I asked him what he wanted. He said he was a stranger and that he had come to see me. I asked him what he wanted. He said he was a stranger and that he had come to see me.

QUEEN SAVAGE

When I was a child, I was told that there were three companies of cannibals who prospecting for oil in the cannibal country. I was told that they had been captured by a band of them and carried off to the hills where for five days they tried to turn me up for a living.

On the night before I was scheduled to finish my school, I had a dream. I noticed a woman in a white dress standing in the middle of a field. She was looking at me and I was looking at her. She was looking at me and I was looking at her. She was looking at me and I was looking at her.

MICHIGAN AND MINNESOTA WILL FIGHT TITANIC BATTLE NOV. 19- WHO'LL WIN "LITTLE BROWN JUG"

This Contest Is Looked Forward To As the Football Classic Of the Season

MICHIGAN AHEAD IN WINS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—Before a crowd expected to duplicate that which witnessed the memorable Ohio State battle here last month, Michigan and Minnesota will engage November 19 in their annual encounter. Upon the outcome will hinge possession of the little brown jug, one of the most prized trophies of the football sport.

The Michigan-Minnesota game has become one of the traditions of each school.

On the eve of the Michigan-Wisconsin clash at Madison last week Coach Fielding H. Yost, Michigan manager, received the following telegram from "Doc" Williams, the Minnesota coach, that speaks volumes in a language best understood by alumni and students of the two institutions.

"What the Harvard and Princeton games are to Yale, the Michigan and Wisconsin games are to Minnesota. The Western Conference schedules are so arranged that any team is liable to lose an early or mid-season game, but it makes no difference to Minnesota what the outcome of other games, the contest with Michigan is looked forward to as the football classic of the season. The great battles in bygone years between Minnesota and Michigan helped make football history in the midwest. Clean, hard play and a high standard of sportsmanship always has been a characteristic of these games. Above all other trophies we prize the little brown jug. We will do our utmost to bring it back to Minnesota this year, but may the best team win."

For real color and display of spirit the Michigan-Minnesota engagement outshines any other football game on the Wolverine schedule, in the opinion of the sports' followers. Rivalry always has been of the keenest.

The jug that has become emblematic of victory originally was used by the squad as a water container in 1901. That year Michigan went to Minnesota and after the two teams had battled to a 6 to 6 tie the Michigan jug was found to be missing. The Minnesota manager, when questioned, announced it had been appropriated by his team and forever afterward would stand as a trophy in Michigan-Minnesota contests. The jug was retained by Minnesota until the next meeting between the Wolverines and Gophers in 1909. Yost brought the jug back to Ann Arbor after that hard fought contest and kept it the following year, when Minnesota was turned back by a small score.

The team did not meet again until 1919, when Michigan bowed and the little brown jug went back to Minnesota. Yost returned it to Ann Arbor last year, however, when the Wolverines routed their opponents at Minneapolis.

Although still called "the little brown jug," the trophy bears resemblance to its former self in shape only. From ordinary brown it has been transformed into a many hued piece of earthenware. On one side is the block "M" on Michigan, the other is the block "M" of Minnesota. The scores of games played between the two schools also are shown.

The feature spectacle of this year's game will be the Michigan block "M." The letter, measuring about 75 feet in height and more than 100 feet in width, is constructed of yellow ribbon draped about the seats in Ferry Field stadium. Blue ribbon forms the background. Building of the letter requires several days of work and is the feature of the last game of the season here.

Two weeks before the game approximately 30,000 seats had been sold, according to announcement by Coach Yost. Since that time the orders have been pouring in and the 42,000 seats in the stadium will probably be occupied when the game starts.

Michigan and Minnesota have engaged in eleven gridiron contests to date. Michigan has won seven of these and one has been a tie. The record of scores follows:

Year	Mich.	Minn.
1892	6	16
1893	20	24
1894	20	0
1895	6	4
1896	6	4
1897	14	0
1898	23	6
1902	6	6
1903	6	6
1909	15	6
1910	6	0

Oldest Conductor Died Yesterday

Ed J. Shay, aged 70, one of the oldest passenger conductors on the entire Northern Pacific system and the oldest on the Yellowstone division, passed away at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Northern Pacific hospital at Glendive following an illness of a month. Heart trouble and complications incident to old age were the cause of his death.

Deceased came to Mandan 37 years ago and entered the employ of the railroad April 14, 1884. He had held the position as conductor since.

For the past six years he was conductor for the Mandan-Killdeer line taking that position in preference to the main line work which he held for so many years.

Mr. Shay was born in Illinois and leaves one sister who lives at Glendive, that state. She has been notified of his death and word from her is awaited before funeral arrangements will be made. The remains will be brought here this evening.

He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE.
"Too Wise Wives," showing at the Eltinge, today and tomorrow is from an original story by Lois Weber.

David Graham, a young married man, is sincerely loved by his wife, Marie, who anticipates his every want and zealously waits upon him. David feels himself bored at times and unconsciously he dreams of his former sweetheart Sara who is now the wife of John Daly his old friend.

Nothing apparently displeased Sara, not even when David dropped kisses upon her cheeks. Unlike Marie, she was not a perfect housekeeper, nor did she force her attentions upon David whom she once thought she loved. She married him because his wealth could satisfy all her whims, and she had many of them.

However, she thought she could win David back and she began a systematic campaign to that end. She planned to have David visit her during her husband's absence on a week-end trip. But she did not count on the unexpected appearance of Marie in her room at midnight when she was awaiting David's arrival on the scene.

Marie, who had intercepted a letter from Sara to David, but without opening it, suspects much when she sees Sara's crest on the envelope. She does not reproach Sara for trying to steal her husband, but what she said will be of interest to all women whose only fault is that they love not wisely but too well.

The story reveals to Sara that a husband's love and faith are a woman's most precious possessions, and there comes perfect happiness to the Graham and Daly households.

"Senseless Sunday," a Marmaduke Comedy, and an Aesop fable, "Mice in Council," are on the program with "Too Wise Wives."

COOKING LESSONS

The Right Way To Bake Bread
SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
Bread, made at home, always touches the spot. The luck you have in your oven depends on the pains you take.

The next time you bake read the following recipe and all the instructions. Be sure all ingredients are at hand and measure accurately and mix thoroughly.

Recipe
1 potato.
2 1/2 cups boiling water.
2 tablespoons lard.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1 tablespoon salt.
1-2 yeast cake (compressed).
1-2 cup luke warm water.
5 cups sifted flour.

Utensils
A stew pan, sieve, small mixing bowl, large mixing bowl, a bread bowl or big dish pan kept for the purpose or bread mixer, cover for bowl or pan, square of cloth kept for a bread cloth, 2 brick-shaped bread pans for baking, molding board, measuring cup, tablespoon, big kitchen spoon.

Method
Wash potato carefully but do not pare. Cut in slices and put in stew pan with boiling water. Cook until potato is tender. Pour the whole into a sieve placed over a bowl. Rub potato through sieve.

Sift 1 cup of flour into a mixing bowl. Beat the scalding potato mixture into the flour. Let cool to luke warm temperature. Add the yeast cake dissolved in luke warm water. Mix thoroughly, cover with a big plate and put in a warm place to stand over night.

In the morning put five cups of flour in the bread bowl or pan. With a big spoon work the flour up the sides of the pan in such a way that the pan is lined with flour. Mix sugar and salt and soften lard. Add these to the yeast mixture.

The yeast should be light and foamy in the morning. Beating the sugar, salt and lard into it will break the lightness. Pour the yeast mixture into the flour lined bread pan and with a big spoon beat the flour evenly into the yeast.

When the mixture becomes too stiff to work with the spoon, mix with your hands. Knead in all the flour in the pan. Then turn onto a floured molding board and knead until the dough is smooth and springy to touch. There should be little bubbles just under the surface of the dough and when the dough is folded over and pressed with the palms of the hands it should snap or crack slightly.

It will take about half an hour to knead the dough thoroughly. Return to the pan, cover with cloth and then with a big cover and put in a warm place to rise. Let rise to double the bulk of the dough. The temperature should be about 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

It will take about an hour and a half for the dough to rise. When light cut off enough dough to make a loaf of bread. In this recipe divide it in half.

Knead smooth on the board and work into a shape that will fill the pan in which the bread is to be baked. Cover with a cloth and let rise again to double its bulk. Bake in a hot oven. The loaf should continue rising for the first fifteen minutes after being put in the oven, should brown during the next thirty and finish baking in the next fifteen. The heat should be reduced during the last fifteen minutes. As soon as bread is taken from the oven it should be removed from the pan and put on a wire rack to cool. If a flaky, crisp crust is desired, rub with melted butter.

Flour known as "pastry" should never be used for bread making. Yeast should be kept in a temperature never lower than sixty degrees.

Bread that has been chilled in the making is never as light.

Bread put in too hot a place during the last rising will have a heavy streak near the bottom.

If dough rises too long the bread will be full of large holes when baked and if it doesn't rise long enough it will be heavy and dark looking.

'ANNA CHRISTIE' SEASON'S BEST

Tops Play Bills Of Last Two Years Because True To Life
BY JAMES W. DEAN.
New York, Nov. 16.—Has Eugene O'Neill in "Anna Christie" written "the great American play?" This writer believes that "Anna Christie" is without doubt the greatest play written in the past two seasons, a greater play than "Beyond the Horizon" and "Emperor Jones," those other plays which placed O'Neill in the van of American playwrights.

"Anna Christie" is a great play because it is minutely true to the life it depicts.

It offers a study in the psychology of heredity and environment.

The weight of tragedy is alleviated by humor of situation and line.

Its story is told in terms of actual existence. Dialogues are in phrases and diction of the day more so than in any current play or fiction.

Makes You Think.

It runs the gamut of emotions like an organ cadenza. It makes you smile. It makes you sad. It satirizes the double standard. It balances the strong with weaknesses and the weak with power.

The play is adequately, artistically staged by Arthur Hopkins.

George Marion, Pauline Lord and Frank Shannon in the principal roles vest the play with better acting than any three players in any other play now on the boards. That includes John Drew, Mrs. Carter and Estelle Winwood in "The Circle."

Marion "gets under the skin" of his character more completely than any other actor of the day. That, considering Lionel Barrymore in "The Claw."

Pauline Lord's portrayal of the fallen girl is naturalism at its highest peak. It is comparable only to Mrs. Fiske's "Salvation Nell."

Each of the principals, individually capable, blend their talents into a perfect whole of stage realism.

Water 6, alcohol 1, 10 above.

Water 4, alcohol 1, 5 above.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE
Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"HAVE WENT," "HAVE SAW."

"I SHOULD have went to the dance," said the girl, "but my mother would not let me." "I have traveled in many lands, but I have saw nothing like this," said the uneducated traveler. After the auxiliary verb "have," in any of its forms, it is proper to employ only the perfect participle of the principal verb; therefore, the girl should have said, "I should have gone to the dance," and the traveler should have said, "I have seen nothing like this."

"They have chose the wisest part" is an instance of this error cited by Gould Brown, the famous grammarian. The proper form of words to be employed is, "They have chosen the wisest part."

In this connection, it may be said, that this error is one of a large number which would be avoided with ease, were the speaker or writer to exercise a little care in the choice of words. But most of us speak or write hastily.

Famous Theatrical "Fake"

A seventeen-year-old boy successfully "faked" a Shakespeare play. He was William H. Ireland, who lived in London about a century ago. Young Ireland tore the fly leaves from old books, concocted an ink that looked faded, and forged Shakespeare's signature to a play that he wrote to fool his father. The play was actually presented by the great actor, Kemble, and would have continued on its own merits had not the tragedian "horsed" the lines, which he believed bogus.

Roswell Johnson's biographer, was one of the literary men that "fell for" the fraud.
